Committee Friendship Fire Co.

No action has been taken by the committee, presumably for the reason that heretofore Council has legislated upon the idea, and seemingly the correct one, that if it owns property the title should remain in the corporation of Alexandria. Tradition has it that the frame building used prior to 1855 was destroyed owing to a St. Patrick's day prank. The story goes that some persons strung a stuffed effigy on a flag pole, which was part of the house, on the morning of Saturday, March 17, 1855. On the following Wednesday, March 21, the Gazette said

FIRE—A fire broke out Monday night about It o'clock which consumed the Friendship Fire Engiae House on Affred street, between King and Prince streets. The firem n were quickly on the spot and they, unable o save the house, prevented the spread of damer. The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. All the apparatus, engine, etc., belonging to the Friendship Company were saved.

The proceedings of Council, then as now, published in the Gazette, note an application from the Friendship Fire Co. for assistance from Conneil for the erection of a house. On May 22, 1855, Mr. George Bryan in the Board of Aldermen offered and had passed the following:

Ordered that the amilitor issue his warrant in favor of the Friendship Fire Company for $500, payable in such installments as they may from time to time require for the crection of an engine house,

On June 12, 1855, the Common Council concurred, and the money as ordere i was paid to Benjamin Thomas. During the years 1855 56 and 1856 57 appropriations were made for the Relief, is said to be the desire of the Friendship Co. to make some improvements in the house to suit new conditions.

A Pathetic Scene.

A pathetic scene was enacted in the Washington Police Court yesterday morning when the case of Mary T. Stewbeen summoned before Judge Kimball to answer a charge of having stolen $30 from the Washington art was called. The young woman had been summoned before Judge Kimball from the Washington Asylum Hospital, where she was a pupil nurse. The sym-pathy of the court and spectators was aroused when the accused faced the bar. Upon obtaining the promise of the girl the repairs with the that she would return home with her ing of the property. sister, who came to Washington yesterday morning, Judge Kimball imposed a fine of $50 or six months in jail, and suspended sentence. The amount stolen was returned to the authorities by the sister. The two girls immediately left the city. Their home is several miles below Alexandria.

Lewis appears in the character of the traditional Downeaster, Si Plunkard, whose chief reason for be ing is to serve as a foil to the conventional villain. The sensitional features presented are a full working threshing machine, the country fair scene, and many other novelties. The comedy has been re-written and will be presented with all new features and all new specialties.

An exchange says: To the public that have seen Mr. Lewis in Si Plankard Company in years gone by, there is very little to tell them, except everything is new this year, but for the benefit of thers all we can say is go and enjoy an evening of fun. It has always been the attraction for the masses who enjoy a good 'augh.'
